We carry with us the progressive, entrepreneurial spirit that has always animated our firm. We've always worked differently than other firms with a commitment to remaining forward-thinking and preparing for the dynamically changing legal and business world.

Working in concert with attorneys from our Intellectual Property, Regulatory, Corporate and Venture Capital practice groups, among others, Haynes Boone provides full life cycle support for Life Sciences companies of all sizes. Whether a small start-up or a large multi-national company, we tailor our approach to solve your most complex challenges.

Haynes Boone's Biotechnology Intellectual Property team provides legal insight on IP strategy, patent prosecution and transactional IP due diligence. We provide overlapping end-to-end protection for proprietary products and services and partnering agreements to leverage or monetize your innovation. Our practitioners routinely handle domestic and foreign prosecution for patent portfolios of all sizes, providing sophisticated counseling and portfolio management, as well as litigation and contested proceedings representation.
